Introduction

Jay's practice focuses on complex commercial litigation, employment matters, and government and internal investigations. Prior to joining Calfo Eakes & Ostrovsky, Jay worked in the litigation department at a prestigious Seattle law firm, and before law school, Jay investigated criminal cases for three years at a Seattle public defender's office.

Jay graduated second in his class at the University of Washington School of Law. He received his undergraduate degree from the University of Puget Sound in Politics & Government.

Super Lawyers Thomson Reuters recognized Jay as a "Rising Star" in Washington State in 2019 and 2020.

Jay serves on the Board of Directors for Elizabeth Gregory Home, a center for homeless and at-risk women.
